

"Bye Bye Friend"

By Samuel Hoskin (Year 3)

Two sunsets ago, I was swimming in a school of fish around an island in the wonderful Dampier Archipelago. I'm a Blue Bone and I live with my friend Clown Fish in his home because my parents are dead. It was quite squishy at first then it was alright. I was happily eating little fish when this giant thing fell down and nearly hit me.

"Aghh" we both shouted.

"What was that?" said Clown Fish.

A mysterious voice came out of no where and said,

"It's an anchor".

So we went back to the school of fish but they were all gone.

"Where are they?" I said.

Then I saw something out of the corner of my eye, it was a big black shadow.

"SHARK!" I shouted.

"Aghh" screamed Clown fish.

So we swam away from the shark. While we were swimming away, we smelled something strange, a bit like whales. We turned around to look but there were no whales there. We thought the smell must have been left by human animals.

Then Clown Fish said, "Let's hide!"

So we hid in a crack of a rock. We hid there for two long hours until we thought the shark had gone away.

"Phew, that was close," said Clown Fish.

Then he swam out of the crack but the shark hadn't gone away at all and Clown Fish got eaten.

"CLOWN FISH!" I yelled.

But it was too late. Clown Fish was gone. If only the human animals hadn't attracted so many sharks with their whale oil, my friend might still be alive.
